

Road Ranger and Salvation Army to Raise Haiti Relief Funds

Dan Arnold, President of Road Ranger, L.L.C., announced today that Road Ranger is partnering with the Salvation Army to provide Disaster Relief for Haiti. Within the next few days, the familiar red Salvation Army collection stands seen during the holidays will be prominently featured in nearly each of the 85 Road Ranger convenience stores located throughout the Midwest. Customers will have the opportunity to donate their change, dollars, or even write checks to Salvation Army-Haiti Relief.

“I believe our customers will want to participate in this relief effort,” said Dan Arnold. “The Salvation Army has an impeccable reputation and that is why we have chosen to partner with them. We know the donations our customers make will quickly get put into the relief pipeline.”

Salvation Army offices throughout the Midwest will be delivering the collection stands to the Road Ranger stores beginning on Friday. Funds will be collected directly by the Salvation Army.

“At Ranger, we constantly remind ourselves that our goal is to help people,” Arnold said. “And by providing this opportunity for people to participate in meeting the needs of those who are suffering in Haiti, we believe that’s a good match.”
